

ABOUT

Innovation in financial services is nothing new. But its impact becomes ever prevalent despite varying gravity. Turkey and the broader EMEA region embeds large potential towards the emerging convergence of financial services and technology.

Istanbul Fintech Week (IFW) is a culmination of three industry summits that have taken place in recent years by KOOPHub. Following the same pattern of those summits, IFW brings industry practitioners and enthusiasts together from across the world. Anything that touches upon financial innovation is undertaken by experts and leaders during this global event.

This event is fantastic! The organization is unbelievable. As probably the most attention to detail and well organized event I've been to for the past five years.

I spoke with the people from US, Singapore, Dubai, basically around the world, all gathering here and sharing their thoughts. It's quite interesting. I really enjoyed it.

WHAT DID THEY SAY ABOUT IFW'19?

Exciting to see all the banks and fintechs are coming together and the full ecosystem to talk about the new technologies, new products and services they're building and bringing to market.

It's my first time in Istanbul and the first time I've been to a KOOPHub event. It really exceeded my expectations. I really liked the fluidity between formal, informal sessions and startup presentations. Most of the people is easily getting connected with each other and having good conversations.
